

By the end of the training period, the FTG Ship Riders discovered 99% of our weaknesses. One last operational readiness drill and we continued our journey greatly relaxed and self-confident that we could handle just about anything. During the remainder of our trip to WESTPAC, we would strengthen ourselves through drills and daily exercises. Before long, our combat readiness for Viet Nam would be a reality.

