

The quarterdeck (top, right) was a mass of men, wires, and sparks. Airing musty life jackets (above, left) were part of the problems. Every night a cleanup party (left) sought to re-create some semblance of order.