

the wild night in godthaab

The last part of Arctic East 1967 was a courtesy visit to Godthaab, the capital of Greenland. Undoubtedly the last night there was the most unforgettable of the summer. For many hours in unyielding rain and wind SOUTHWIND with another vessel tied alongside swung dangerously close to rocks surrounding an anchorage they were unable to leave.

