

Many tours were on the agenda during our stay. One of the first places of call was the Happy Happy Massage Parlor where for just 100 Baht ($5.00 US) one could receive service easing away the tension of a long patrol.

The Grand Palace with the Temple of the Emerald Buddha was a fabulous place for pictures. Other interesting places in the city were the Reclining Buddha and the five and a half ton solid gold Buddha.

For those sailors enthusiastic about traveling a bit further, there was the Bridge over the River Kwai or an afternoon at TIM land where one could observe various aspects of Thai Culture. Beautiful Thai girls in full native costumes perform ritual dances and songs for sight-seers and picture takers, Thai boxing, sword fighting and cock fights were on the agenda also . . . a fascinating country.
