

We also acted as a naval gunfire support ship. We were called upon to provide fire with our five-inch mount, hoping that we would slow down the enemy moving his supplies and weaken his defenses. With over 3400 rounds fired, we managed to level hundreds of enemy structures and bunkers, and do a good job of tearing up their supply routes.

