

Our firing improved quite a bit. We were hitting the target, destroying one sampan with three probably destroyed. They called us to fire again the same evening so we couldn't have done too badly with our first try. At least we earned our combat pay.

"DECK FORCE DAY WORKERS MUSTER ON THE FANTAIL."

It rained a lot during our first patrol, limiting our firing to those days on which the spotter had a clear view of the target.

On June 13th Dr. Bartok made his first MEDCAP. This Medical Civilian Assistance Program took him to Ap Nha Tho, a small isolated Vietnamese village, where he treated over 150 persons in need of medical assistance. By the end of our tour in Vietnam he had treated over 5000 patients.
