

Hydrofoil ferry crossing Sydney Harbor. Harbor bridge and opera house add beauty to Sydney Harbor.

Sydney, Australia

On the 3rd of November we arrived in Sydney, Australia; land of the mini skirts, bikinis, kangaroos, and a surfer's paradise. It didn't take the crew long to establish a beachhead and locate the liveliest spot in town for night life and action; the famous section of Sydney known as Kings Cross.

A brief respite, before continuing her journey south, Westwind spent three wonderful days in Sydney. From the beaches and countryside in the daytime to the clubs in the evening, the Aussies showed we Yanks they have a fine city and country and that they are proud of it.

The American-Australian relationship during our stay was excellent and we are pleased to have these people as our friends and staunch allies. Were French the spoken language here we would say "Viva la Australians".

Kings Cross and El Alamein Fountain became common sights to the crew of Westwind.

